The name Susan Salo is certainly becoming recognizable in today's world of agility. Susan brings over thirty-five years of experience from the world of show jumping. A lifelong horsewoman, she has ridden for many years with some of the nation's most noted horsemen including Gene Lewis, George Morris and the late Jimmy Williams and has competed throughout the United States and Canada.

Susan brings her extensive experience of combining speed with jumping to the sport of Agility. She offers a unique perspective and knowledge of the mechanical aspects of jumping which when properly applied can create muscle memory and balance for the canine athlete. Not to be confused with a handling seminar, her lessons and workshops focus entirely on the dog and build better jumping skills and instill more confidence and speed. Training with Susan is an opportunity for you to develop your 'eye' and witness your dog learning about balance, striding and scope until jumping becomes effortless.

Susan Garrett, one of the worlds most respected dog trainers, says the following about Susan Salo in her new book Shaping Success, "With Susan's help, I have taught "Buzz" to become a more confident jumper who has more success in keeping bars up.... fellow competitors were commenting on the tremendous improvement they were seeing in his (Buzz's) jumping ability.....I never would have learned all that I know about teaching dogs to jump (without Susan Salo)."
